

Sports Medicine Physician

Job Description: Diagnose and treat sports related injuries with medicine and/or physical therapy

What do Sports Medicine Physicians do?

- Diagnose and treat sports related injuries
- Help athletes to move their arms and legs after bad injuries
- Perform surgery and prescribe medications if you hold a medical license
- Show athletes how to improve their fitness
- Supervise Exercise Programs

Your Interests:

- Do you like sports?
- Do you like taking care of others?
- Do you like to work with people?
- Do you enjoy teaching others how to be healthy?

Outlook: Bright

Sports Medicine Specialists: $118,960-$374,300.

Athletic Trainers ranged from $32,536-$50,943.

Exercise physiologists were reported as earning from $36,280-$56,274

Physical therapists ranged from $63,467-$83,950.

Education/Program of Study:

- Sports Medicine Physicians have an advanced medical degree
- Athletic Trainers have a Bachelors in Sports Medicine